

Once again, in this time of crisis, our government is deciding to support corporate profit over the good of the populace. Lifting the cross-ownership ban on media conglomerates is blatantly against the best interests of the American people. This scheme will keep our citizens less informed and therefore more easily controlled by the moneyed interests currently controlling our news sources and our government institutions. You should be ashamed to even suggest such a backward and un-american policy.